Jail Trusty Cleans Up; Clears Out

A trusty in the Torrance police jail escaped Thursday after he failed to return after clean-up duty at the station.

Joseph Pacheco, 1305 Post Ave. Apt. 119, was reported missing at 9 p.m. from his cell after clean-up duty in the station lounge earlier in the evening. A search of the station did not turn up the prisoner.

Pacheco was arrested June 21 by Torrance police for carrying a concealed weapon and exhibiting a firearm after he entered a bar at 3127 Cabrillo Ave., and waved a revolver at bar patrons.

Earlier in the evening, Pacheco was visited by two relatives who told police they wanted to get him out of jail so he could leave the state. The prisoner was missing a few hours later.

Head Start

Continued from Page A1) discussion whether members of the community should take a vote to stay with the Mexican-American Council after the disruption of the program during the past week.

The disruption began when a truck sent to pick up furniture by Pacheco was halted by teachers at the Mission by locking the gate. The instructors were later suspended by Pacheco for their actions but they said they resigned because they could not work under his directorship.

The Coordinating Council left the door open to a meeting between all those agencies involved, the Archdiocese, Mexican-American Council, Pueblo Club and the Federation of Settlement and Centers which has offered to take the center over.

DURING A meeting on Monday, members of the Pueblo Club and parents in the program voted to stay with Pacheco although there was some disapproval concerning the dismissal of the two instructors.

At another meeting of the executive board of Pueblo Club later this week, it was decided that the question of who should run the program

Police Seek Well-Armed Sneak Thief

Police are seeking a well-armed burglar who took several guns and boxes of ammunition from the home of Robert Headley, 6401 W. 191st St., early Wednesday after ransacking the home for valuables.

Headley, who was on vacation at the time of the burglary, said the thief searched through drawers and closets in the home but did not take several valuable appliances. Instead, police said the burglar took one shotgun and shells, a revolver and holster and a rifle with shells.

Also found to be missing later, Headley said, was a Torrance reserve police badge.

Although the whole house was ransacked, only the guns in one bedroom were taken. And, according to police, although the burglar scattered the contents of drawers on the floor, he was very neat about putting out a cigarette in an ash tray.

would not be brought up nor voted on again by the Pueblo Club. Members had supported Pacheco's program during the Monday meeting.

Although Pacheco's program received a vote of confidence, it apparently will remain unstable until a new site can be found in the neighborhood and normal classes resumed sometime this summer.

18,586 Back To Classes For Summer

First day enrollment in Torrance's summer school program Monday has exceeded preliminary estimates by approximately 600 students to a new high total of 18,586 children who are voluntarily attending the six week program.

With an increase of about 3,000 students over last year, school attendance records reveal that 14,004 pupils reported for summer classes in the elementary schools, while 4,576 showed up for classes at the city's four high schools.

Torrance summer school involves over half of the regular session students who total approximately 34,000.

Courts

Continued from Page A1) the location among the county supervisors, said, "The facility is another evidence of the county meeting needs of a growing area."

On a local note, Torrance Mayor Albert Isen, while calling the structure functional and beautiful, foresaw a potential problem of court house needs and residential interests conflicting in the area.

MAYOR ISEN said, "We anticipate a demand for more offices and facilities in the area. Many lawyers are now moving their offices here, and many related businesses relocating. On the other hand, we also know that the homeowners of the surrounding neighborhoods wish to preserve the quiet residential character which now exists. So together we are seeking the means to reach a compatible solution."

In addition, the Mayor said he had been concerned with the problems of increased traffic needs near the structure.

"We feel that it (traffic access) must be improved even more in order to give maximum service to the outlying area."

UNEXPECTEDLY attending the ceremony, former Gov. Goodwin Knight offered his congratulations to those who made the court complex possible. Municipal and Superior courts have been operating since late May, on four floors, and the fifth floor interior is expected to be completed Oct. 1.

When completed, the courthouse will house eleven Superior and four Municipal courts serving 14 cities and several unincorporated areas in the South Bay area.
